Brooklyn Engineering Services Joins the TEGG Service Network

TEGG Franchise Network Expands into Ireland

Canonsburg, PA – November 18, 2016 – TEGG, a leading provider of electrical maintenance services, announces Brooklyn Engineering Services has signed an agreement to join the TEGG franchise network. Brooklyn Engineering Services is a leading full-service provider of electrical contracting for Ireland. TEGG is a franchise brand of ABM Franchising Group, an operating unit of ABM \(NYSE:ABM\).

Since 1976, Brooklyn Engineering Services has provided a long list of solutions, such as engineering, electrical and infrastructure services, and project management, to a range of clients in the commercial, industrial and retail markets.

“Brooklyn Engineering Services is very excited about being TEGG’s Ireland franchise and we look forward to expanding our client network,” said Ciaran MacNamara, General Manager of Brooklyn Engineering. “We have experience in a diverse range of industries and markets, and with a great deal of international experience, we continually enjoy repeat business from customers who see the value of employing contractors who go beyond the ‘nuts and bolts’ of the typical installation.”

Based in Dublin, Brooklyn Engineering Services has been one of Ireland’s leading electrical services providers for 40 years. With a foundation in process control and industrial automation, the company grew to be one of the country’s most respected specialized electrical contracting firms. MacNamara credits Brooklyn Engineering Services’ customer-focused approach for the company’s successful history.

“Our capabilities in general electrical contracting and our expertise in more specialized areas provide us with a unique approach in delivering electrical projects,” MacNamara said. “Our highly qualified engineers and managers work together to deliver services that satisfy budgets and time constraints, as well as satisfy the particular needs of the customers’ business.”

Brooklyn Engineering Services currently employs 75, but has made plans to expand its workforce since joining TEGG in September.

ABM Franchising Group offers a portfolio of franchise networks that deliver mechanical and electrical service and preventive maintenance solutions to commercial and industrial buildings. ABM Franchising Group consists of two franchise brands: Linc Service and TEGG. Brooklyn Engineering Services will operate under the TEGG franchise brand.

“We are very pleased to welcome Brooklyn Engineering Services to the TEGG network and look forward to working with them,” said Bert Kendall, Senior Vice President of ABM Franchising Group. “They have a long history of providing quality electrical services in Ireland, and we are proud to be able to help them grow their business by including TEGG testing and maintenance in their offerings.”
